AVCO DIVISION ANNOUNCES EDUCATIONAL AID PROGRAM

A unique educational aid program at Avco Manufacturing Corporation's Research and Advanced Development Division for all full-time employees who wish to pursue courses of study offered by any nearby accredited college, university, evening or technical school, or professional organization is being undertaken by Dr. Lloyd P. Smith, division president.

The plan provides for full payment of registration, tuition and laboratory fees by the division to employees successfully completing courses. One-half the cost of necessary text books, laboratory equipment and supplies will also be borne by the Avco division.

The assistance program benefits employees studying in fields related to their present work or to potential assignments, which they might receive in the near future through transfer or promotion within the division. Employees on all levels at the Research and Advanced Development Division are included in the program. Outlining the division's policy regarding educational aid, Dr. Smith stated:

"Because of the highly technical creative character of the work of the Research and Advanced Development Division, it is deemed important that individuals try to increase their knowledge and training in the fields in which they are particularly qualified. This is important not only in widening the horizons of the individual and increasing his contributions to the work of the divisions, but it is also in the national interest, in this era of keen international competition, for all of us to keep up with the rapidly advancing technical fields.

"It will be the policy of the division to establish an environment in which further individual education is encouraged by developing internal educational and training programs and providing an opportunity for individuals to take courses in nearby accredited educational institutions through an educational aid program."

In order for employees to elect a wider variety of courses, the Avco R. A. D. program also provides for study in daytime classes. An individual may spend up to eight work hours weekly, including travel time, in pursuing a course of study without receiving any pay reduction.

Reimbursement will be made upon successful completion of a course, providing the employee has achieved a passing grade and is still on the division's payroll.

The educational aid program is expected to enhance the educational level of employees from the greater Lawrence area over a long term, as well as offering immediate incentive to personnel within the Avco Research and Advanced Development Division.

LOCAL PUBLIC OFFICIALS ATTEND GOVERNORS CONFERENCE

The Seventh Governors Conference on State, County, and Municipal Relations was held Saturday, Dec. 1st at the Statler Hotel in Boston. Among the large attendance (estimated 350) of various officials of the 351 communities which make up the State of Mass., the town of Wilmington was well represented by their board of selectmen, (Mrs. Wavie Drew, Nicholas DeFelice, E. Hayward Bliss and Frank Hagerty) along with the Town manager and Mrs. Joseph Courtney.

These conferences are used as a medium of information exchange wherein the various problems of Local Planning, Developments, School budgets, and Finance are spoken on, and the solution to the problems as arrived at by different communities.

The program was opened by John Gillespie, Director of Government Research, University of Mass. at 9:45

a. m. The School Budget and Finance, and the Relationship of General Court to Local Government was then discussed, following which an adjournment to lunch and address by the Honorable Harold C. MacClellon, assistant Secretary of Commerce, of United States, Washington, D.C.

The next panel, Community Business and Industrial Development was held under the chairmanship of our own Town Manager, Joseph Courtney. The panel spoke impressively on the State's role on Economic Development, Development of Southeastern Mass., Relationship of Labor to Community Business, Industrial Development, and on Corporate taxes, Sales taxes, Unemployment Compensation and Workingmen's compensation.

The last panel was on the topic of press and coverage of State and local news, un-

WINES AND BEER FROM WAR-TORN MIDDLE-EAST AT SHAMROCK DRIVE-IN

One of the most interesting things about that new "Wines of the World" Department at the Shamrock (in view of the current struggle for power in the Middle East) is the fact that even the young, little, country of Israel is well represented in the collection.

While perusing the vast assortment of individually registered, fine table wines from the vineyards represented is the Cressynham and Stodick collection, we noticed a wine with Hebrew on the label. And a closer look divulged the fact that the wine, named "Galilee" is from a little vineyard in far-off Israel. Then, as we glanced a little closer at the selection of world-wide, imported malt beverages, we found the same little nation of Israel again represented, this time with a bottled beer from the little village of Nathanya.

Incidentally, along these same lines, one of the most interesting colored jugs of Danish Cherry wine is called Danish Cherry Melach. This turns out to be a cherry wine with sugar and flavoring materials added. And, according to the label, this particular wine was produced "from the beginning to the end under the strict supervision of Rabbi Dr. Marcus Melchior, Chief Rabbi of the Jewish Congregation in Copenhagen.

So, if you are in any way at all interested in things abroad, you can tour a good part of the world without paying any more than it costs you in gasoline to drive down to the Shamrock Drive-In on Main St., Wilmington (opposite Rocco's).

It's an education in itself and an experience that you would ordinarily have to travel miles out of town to get. (We understand that there are very few collections of table wines of the world anywhere in New England that equal or surpass the Drive-In's collection in our own little town.

ACCIDENT VICTIM SUCCUMBS

Wilbur Elisks 43, of 15 Lincoln St., Lynn, died at St. John's Hospital on Monday night, as a result of injuries received in the Main St. accident on Nov. 24. Mr. Elisks was one of seven men injured in the mishap.

State Official Says "Wilmington Best Planned, Zoned And Managed Community In The State"

Gerald W. Blakely Jr., Vice-President of Cabot, Cabot and Forbes Co. cited the town of Wilmington as the "best planned, zoned and managed community in the State".

Wilmington's program of Community Business and Industrial Development is being noticed with considerable interest by the 351 communities of the state of Mass.

Such was evident by the manner in which the remarks of Joseph E. Courtney, Town Manager of Wilmington, were received by the members of the panel. This panel, on Community Business and Industrial Development at the seventh Governors' Conference held at the hotel Statler, Saturday, Dec. 1, in Boston Mass., consisted of the following authorities:

Richard Preston - Commissioner of Mass. Department of Commerce.

Topic: "The States Role in Industrial Development".

Robert A. Chadbourne, Assistant Vice-President of Associated Industries of Mass.

Topic: "The Stake in Industrial Development".

Gerald W. Blakely, Vice President of Cabot, Cabot and Forbes, Co.

Topic: "What Communities must do to attract new industry".

Harold D. Ulrich - General Chairman Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Steamship Employees.

Topic: "Labor Relations".

Patrick H. Harrington Jr., Attorney, Fall River, Mass.

Topic: "Industrial Development In Southern Mass."

John J. Buckley - Mayor of Lawrence.

Topic: "Lawrence' Successful Bid in the Town Economy".

O. Edwin Swanson, Selectman, Natick, Mass.

Topic: Panel Topic and how the town of Natick succeeded with the program.

The assembly was comprised mainly of Mayors, Selectmen, City and Town Managers, County Commissioners, and School Committee men.

The following is the text of the remarks of Wilmington's Town Manager, Joseph E. Courtney:

Remarks by Joseph A. Courtney

Aside from obvious requirements such as geographical location, available land and basic municipal services, there are several propositions concerning the role of the community in industrial development which I submit for your consideration:

First: That new industrial development is not, and should not be regarded as a cure-all for municipal ailments. It can easily create as many problems as it solves. A community unprepared to handle the responsibilities of substantial industrial expansion is inviting a painful case of municipal indigestion.

Second: That for the foreseeable future, there will not be enough new industrial development to satisfy the hopes of cities and towns which look to industry to solve their financial problems - and therefore the wisest course for any municipality to follow is to put its own house in order without depending upon industrial development which may never materialize.

Third: We rarely hear of a desirable industry anxiously seeking an opportunity to rescue a city or town from its own lack of foresight.

Fourth: The motives underlying the usual municipal effort to attract new industry involve either or both: - the need for additional tax revenue, and/or - the need for increased employment opportunities. For many suburban communities already staggering under the costs of massive population growth, these motives are mutually exclusive - for them the advent of a mass employment industry could easily constitute municipal disaster.

Fifth: New industrial development is as much an investment for the community as it is for the firm. It is senseless for a community to offer more or to sacrifice more for the sake of attracting an industry than it will get in return.

Sixth: Desirable industrial prospects are characterized by their willingness to assume a fair share of responsibility to the community. In return, such a prospect seeks tangible long term assurance that it will remain a welcome and valued guest of the community.

Seventh: The most desirable municipal need for new industrial devel-

LIONS' DOOR KNOCKING DAY DECEMBER 9

Once again the Members of the Wilmington Lions Club wish to make it known that they are conducting their third annual all-out drive selling electric light bulbs and brooms to the residents of Wilmington and to any outsider who may desire to purchase them. All the proceeds are to be used by the various doctors assigned to the Eye Research Department of Massachusetts. A percentage of the proceeds must be set up in the form of a fund to provide for the Local Sight Conservation Program.

The Club Members are very much aware of the fact that many people are too busy to approach them to purchase Bulbs or Brooms. Because of that, Sunday, December 9, has been set as the Day for the Lions men to knock on all the doors of Wilmington residents who have not been approached previously.

It is hoped that every resident will participate in order to make the Third Drive conducted here a great success. One reason for the desired success is the possibility of having enough funds available for research in order that the number of premature babies born blind would be lowered. It was not too long ago when a statement was made to the effect that 78 per cent of all premature babies were born BLIND. There are many other desired reasons for the success of the Bulb and Broom Drive and the Lions assure you that they are all for the benefit of those in need.

Furthermore, the purchase of the Bulbs or Brooms brings about a financial return that could not be acquired by purchasing them anywhere else. The quality of the Broom is excellent due to the fact that it is constructed by the Blind. The package of bulbs being sold contains a useful assortment of four 40-watt, five 60-watt, and two 100 watt bulbs.

Please do not hesitate when you are approached. We know you will do your share to HELP THE BLIND and you will be VERY PROUD in having helped in some way.

Incidentally, if you desire delivery service before Sunday, why not call on the following: Arthur Boudreau, OLiver 8-2109; John Cuoco, OLiver 8-2932; Geo. Cushing, OLiver 8-3341; Nicholas DeFelice, OLiver 8-4534; Anthony DeLuca, Woburn 2-4815; Frank Hagerty, OLiver 8-3512; Frank Griffin, OLiver 8-2620; Don Kidder, OLiver 8-3467; Dave Landers, OLiver 8-3039; Rene LaRivee, OLiver 8-3556; Robert McCabe, OLiver 8-2985; Robert Michelson, OLiver 8-2100; John Murphy, OLiver 8-3648; James Pipes, OLiver 8-2566; William Stickney, and William Widger, OLiver 8-3656.

BERNARD P. McMAHON WILL ATTEND ANNUAL MEETING IN BOSTON

Bernard P. McMahon, principal of Wilmington High School, will attend the 71st annual meeting in Boston, Friday.

More than 1,000 New England school and college spokesmen convene in Boston on Friday, Dec. 7.

They will join in the 71st annual meeting of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The meeting, at the Hotel Statler, will be the largest in the Association's history. Some 700 New England high schools, independent schools, and institutions for higher education are sending representatives.

In separate and combined sessions, the delegates will discuss what's happening and what's ahead in New England — and American — education. From the admissions directors of eight New England colleges, they will learn of current trends in college admissions policy. There will be general discussion of the topic that now overshadows all others in education — the expected "bulge" in enrollments. And there will be three major speakers:

J. Paul Mather, President of the University of Massachusetts, discussing "Who Should be Educated: A State University Viewpoint" for the college delegates luncheon (1:00 p.m.).

William G. Avirett, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, giving an "Academic Horoscope" to the secondary-school delegates luncheon (1:00 p.m.).

Lester W. Nelson, Consultant to the Fund for the Advancement of Education, addressing the afternoon joint meeting on "Present Barriers and Needed Break-Throughs in Education" (3:00 p.m.).

The New England Association is the oldest of the nation's regional educational organizations.

It serves as a forum where colleges and secondary schools can trade information on common problems. As an accrediting organization, it helps build educational standards.

For about 50 committee members, the convention will actually open Thursday, Dec. 6, with all-day business sessions of the association's standing committees. For all other delegates, Friday is the key day, with the major business and public sessions.

Presiding at the business meetings-Friday will be: Dean Nathaniel Kendrick of Bowdoin College, Institutions of Higher Education; Maurice J. O'Leary, Principal, High School, Springfield, Vt., Public Secondary Schools; and John C. Boyden, Deerfield Academy, Deerfield, Mass., Independent Secondary Schools.

A Friday morning highlight (9:30 a.m.) will be a "clinic" on college admissions and scholarships. Seven New England admissions officers will participate. They are:

B. Alden Thresher, Director of Admissions, M.I.T. chairman; Rev. Edmond D. Walsh, S.J., Director of Admissions, Boston College; Brown University; John U. Dean Emery R. Walker, Monroe, Director of Financial Aids, Harvard; Miss Clara R. Ludwig, Assistant Director of Admissions, Mt. Holyoke; Thomas E. Roberts, Director of Admissions, University of Connecticut; Frederick C. Copeland, Director of Admissions, Williams College.

At the Friday evening dinner, a special announcement will be made of the presidents of New England Colleges elected to office since last year's annual meeting. They are:

Rev. Gerald F. McCarthy, O.S.P., St. Anselm's College, Manchester, N.H.; Sister Marie Louise, Albertus Magnus College, New Haven; Sister Adelard Marie, Rivier College, Nashua, N.H.; Mother Gabrielle Husson, Newton College of the Sacred Heart, Newton, Mass.

Several cooperating associations within the New England Association will hold meetings in Boston on Saturday, Dec. 9. The groups and their meeting sites are:

Council of New England Secondary Schools Principals Association, Hotel Statler; New England Association of Chemistry Teachers, meeting jointly with the Eastern Association of Physics Teachers, and the New England Biological Association, Boston University; New England Association of Teachers of English, Hotel Statler; National Catholic Educational Association, College and University Department, New England Unit, Sheraton-Plaza Hotel; New England Junior College Council, Hotel Statler; New England Modern Language Association, Annual meeting of the Eastern Massachusetts Group, Brandeis University; The Association of Teachers of Mathematics in New England, Boston University.

GALS—

How're you making out on the Egg Diet? (They're still .37 -- and a "baker's dozen" to boot!) Why pay more? Yes... Why pay more?

As Always,
MABEL

P.S.

Now's the time for all wise gals to ration the BF down to a 5-Pack of Camels for only 1.23 (Put the savings with those "egg" pennies and later on you can turn the whole business loose on your holiday shopping).

Charlie asked me to tell you that the HOOD'S EGG NOG is only .83 for a full quart. (This is for all you gals who have BF's who prefer to "DO IT YOURSELF")

MABEL

P.P.P.S.

Don't forget... you night owls... as long as you get down to the DRIVE-IN by 11 p.m., you can always get your breakfast supply of fresh HOOD'S MILK, as well as their ORANGE JUICE and ICE CREAM (.99 a HALF GALLON).

P.P.P.P.S.

I can't really tell you fellers what to do with your old razor blades! But I can tell you where you can get a new supply anytime you get caught short late at night... at the DRIVE-IN, of course!

MABEL

AND HERE'S THE BEST NEWS OF ALL, FOLKS!

Remember, that MOM and DAD and all their kiddies who lost everything but body and soul on that terrible fire that gutted TUNNEY'S FURNITURE STORE. Well, things are looking much rosier now. First of all, you folks filled up that "change" box with about $60.00 which was turned over to the family at Thanksgiving time. Then, a very neighborly feller who moved into Wilmington from N. Billerica, recently made them a gift of his "extra" kitchen stove. And the pay-off came, when a serviceman and his wife dropped by the DRIVE-IN and made arrangements to outfit their next house from stem-to-stem with furniture and furnishings they no longer will have use for at the Bedford Air Base. And it looks as though that house on GLEN ROAD will come thru for them real soon — so the skies are looking a lot clearer for those unfortunate folks, and their kiddies. (Hope they make it in time for the holiday's.)

What's New . . . In Department "Q"

Well, folks, for one thing there's those FANCY BOTTLES DECANTERS and GIFT WRAPS. Dozens to choose from, and all at "regular" bottle prices. A small deposit will hold "yours" for "you".

So bundle up gals, and drop down to the DRIVE-IN, and take a tour of the only package store of its kind in ALL NEW ENGLAND. Shopping there is as easy as "rolling off a log". And you'll always find a warm reception and a cheerful atmosphere... it's built in, gals!!

Want a good laugh, folks. Well, last week a feller came in to the DRIVE-IN with his little trick dog. And the first thing you know he had him going thru his paces. And, everything the cute little feller did was just as cunning as a bunny.

Until he knocked over and broke a fifth of SAKI, that is!!

However, Cousin Gussie mopped up the blamed stuff... quick like a bunny... and nobody had a chance to even "finger" it for sampling purposes. Then (Hal sprayed everything in sight with that PINE deodorizer he seems to love so much... just so the DRIVE-IN wouldn't have the flowery (P) scent of a JAPANESE TEA ROOM. (Personally, most of us think that that MAINE woods effect the old fool gets out of that PINE deodorizer can be improved upon too!)

Anyhqw, after many "So-solly's" for knocking over the SAKI'S the pooche's master got the idea of trying a bottle of the confounded stuff himself... so we didn't lose out completely!

opment, the more concessions and inducements that can be wrung out of the community. There is another side to this coin, however. Not only is a desperate community a poor risk for industrial investment - there is the obvious fact that the new industry buys the problems of the community along with the site - and it will inescapably pay its share of the next round of uneconomic concessions - and the next round after that.

Eight: The best advice any city or town can follow for a long-term program to attract and hold industry is that phase coined by Dick Preston which seems to be the official motto of the Massachusetts Department of Commerce:

"TO ATTRACT, YOU MUST FIRST BE ATTRACTIVE"

Those actions which a community must take to guarantee its own future are the most effective inducements it can afford to offer to new industry.

As a specific illustration of some of the things a community can do to attract new industry, I would like to offer my own town of Wilmington as a case study in point.

In so doing I want to make it perfectly clear that what I have to say does not stem from any belief that we have found the only answer or that Wilmington is the only town to offer these features. And I can testify that we have our full quota of unresolved problems.

Five years ago Wilmington was a classic example of a semi-rural community suddenly overwhelmed by the great exodus to the suburbs.

In common with other bedroom suburbs, Wilmington found that the new tax revenue realized from residential growth fell far behind the demand for new expenditures for roads, water main extensions, protective services, and especially schools.

Therefore, the Town deliberately turned to industrial development as the best source of new tax revenue. However, Wilmington was, and intended to remain, a predominately residential community.

In five years, between 1951 and 1955, Wilmington's efforts to attract new diversified industry yielded the following results:

Industrial Employment increased over: 300 percent.

Industrial Payrolls increased over: 700 percent.

Taxable Industrial Valuation increased over: 900 percent.

And this past summer, Wilmington was selected as the site for Avco Corporation's Advanced Research and Development Division.

For the record, I might say at this time that Wilmington's industrial development program has been carried out:

1. Without resorting to special tax adjustments or concessions. All industry - old and new - is assessed on the same basis as all other properties.

2. Without expending large sums of money for advertising and promotion.

3. Without the expenditure of public funds for municipal facilities and improvements other than those required by the natural and planned growth of the town.

Through the following policies and programs, we have invited industry, such as Avco, to share our future not our problems:

1. A Fair and Equitable Assessment Policy.

To insure this, Wilmington carried out a professional re-appraisal of all taxable property within the Town, with the same detailed appraisal standards applying to all new properties coming into the Town.

2. Planned Financial Stability:

For an independent appraisal of Wilmington's record and future prospects for fiscal stability, I might cite the recent upgrading of Wilmington's credit rating to "AA" by Moody's Investment Service, one of the very few improved ratings in the Commonwealth in several years.

3. Planning and Zoning

We have reserved over eleven hundred acres of good building land with railroad frontage and access onto the new Route 28 in two large blocks. Residential uses are prohibited in the industrial zones in which a very limited number of uses are permitted outright while a highly flexible "permitted on appeal" clause allows the Town to utilize performance standards on an individual basis for all other uses. In combination, our zoning and subdivision regulations are designed to encourage orderly and efficient residential growth - and to stabilize that growth at a rate that minimizes the extra burden it places on existing tax payers. These regulations are further supported by a full battery of protective health, housing and building codes.

4. Administration

Wilmington possesses one of the most professionalized, full-time municipal staffs of any Town in the state under 20,000 in population. This staff includes a Principal Assessor, a Sanitarian, a Building Inspector, a Town Engineer, and a Town Accountant operating under a Selectmen Town Manager form of government.

5. Schools

The Town has kept abreast of school needs and improvements without resorting to double sessions through a new construction program that has been carefully scheduled to minimize its impact upon the tax rate.

6. Vital Information

For any potential industrial prospect, we can provide on short notice aerial photographs and other pertinent information on any parcel of property within the Town. In fact, through our professional staff and the data compiled in the course of various improvement programs, we are prepared to offer most of the information usually compiled by consultants specializing in plant location.

The program I have outlined may not be the best or the only answer. Nor are its components unique to Wilmington, but it is serving the Town and its industries well today - and we believe it will continue to do so in the future.

Forty youngsters between the ages of two and fourteen from the Lowell Children's Home will share in the Christmas party of Pack 58 on Dec. 21 at the Wilmington High school cafeteria.

As plans for the affair were

Frank King, chairman of Pack 58 has stated that the 64 boys of the pack and their parents are being assisted in their efforts by the Helping Hand Club of Tewksbury. The Wilmington Lions Club will donate the transportation for the children of the home to and from Lowell.

Anyone interested in helping these people in their good work may contact Cub Master, Thomas Hamilton of Bond St., So. Tewksbury for further information.

LUCCIS MARKET A BRIGHT SPOT IN EAST WILMINGTON

by Esther Moore

It's nearly a year since Johnny and Midge Luccis opened their market on the corner of Woburn and Lowell Streets. For the residents of this area, long without a store nearby, it was a happy day. The store had been there a long time, and had been in service until the previous year when the former owner, Emma Sarant, passed on. The Luccis not only gave the store a new name when they took it over, but a completely new character. It is not a variety store, handy to pick up a loaf of bread or a pack of cigarettes, but a small scale supermarket, complete with the latest frozen foods, the newest in canned articles, and has a fine quality of meat as you can find anywhere.

But more than the food-stuff themselves, it is the atmosphere that provides a share of the drawing power that has built up a steady patronage in the past year. John and Midge are young and vital. They have the friendly interest in the customer that is often lacking in the more impersonal, more mechanized store that has become popular. The small store has its place, and when you find good quality and selection of up to date items, combined with the neighborly touch, it's a combination hard to beat. Luccis is the kind of place where finding a checker game going on, on the front porch wouldn't be surprising.

John's father has owned a market in Stoneham for many years, so John has learned his business well. A lot of modernization was necessary to bring the old "Murrays" up to date, and a lot of know-how needed to do it right. One of the most popular, and certainly a hard to find feature, is the free delivery service. Call up and give an order and it will be delivered to the door. For the carless, the invalid, the rushed, this service is invaluable.

For some time, young Charlie Ramsdell, who lives nearby on Wildwood St. has been employed part time. This past week Charlie took over as a full time man. Bright, cheerful and ambitious, he adds another bright spot in Luccis.

John and Midge have followed a number of Wilmington's business people, coming here merely to conduct their business first and finding Wilmington so much to their liking that they move here. Renting now, the Luccis plan to settle here permanently. Wilmington is proud to have them.

It takes about 150 days of drilling time to sink an oil well below 15,000 feet.

THE REVOLT THAT DIDN'T HAPPEN

Prior to the election, many people felt that dissatisfaction on the part of farmers might prove very costly, in terms of votes, to President Eisenhower. Much political fire was centered on the Administration, and particularly Secretary of Agriculture Benson, for favoring flexible supports as against high and rigid supports.

This "farm revolt" simply did not happen. The President ran with great strength in the principal farming regions.

Why in its Nov. issue,

"Outside drouth areas, most farmers, though not all, have been doing pretty well... considerably better than a year ago." For another, recent years have witnessed a strengthening, not a weakening, of the institution of the family farm, which is certainly all to the good. For a third, the government supports apply to only six so-called basic crops and, as Secretary Benson has effectively pointed out, are of primary benefit to big commercial-type farms rather than the smaller family farms.

There may well be still another reason that is more compelling than any of these. Many farmers must realize that no nation is rich enough to continue indefinitely to build up government-bought surplus - and many must realize, on the grounds of both experience and theory, that when government does the paying, government also does the bossing. Some leading farm groups, in fact, have long recognized this. The livestock producers, for instance, have steadfastly opposed government supports and controls, even in times of severe economic strain. Farmers value freedom too.

CLEANING THE FREIGHT CARS

Our first thought, cleaning a freight car hardly seems a matter of much importance. But the amazing fact is that it costs the nation's railroads $110 million a year to clean their freight cars which is a lot of money in any language. About half of the expense is a necessary part of the operation of the railroads in preparing cars to make them suitable for various types of commodities. But the other half is caused by cars left in dirty condition by the receivers of freight.

To combat this problem, a clean car program was started in 1954. The heart of the program lies in car checks followed by re-checks and with personal contact by railroad representatives to explain the purpose of the campaign to receivers. These activities have stirred up considerable community interest. Chambers of Commerce and local newspapers have helped greatly. The Air Force, Navy, and main large commercial shippers are cooperating. As a result, the proportion of unclean cars to total cars released has been dropping substantially, and improvement continues. Shippers have learned that it is of real advantage to them to clean their cars properly in some cases, strange as it seems, railroads have taken back cars loaded with debris, and found under it valuable shipment that the receivers had just overlooked.

Work of this kind, obviously enough isn't just a railroad affair. All the costs of operating this or any other service must be borne by the people who use it and their customers. So just about everyone gets an indirect benefit from the clean car program.

PATTERN FOR COMMUNITY GROWTH

Power companies, railroads, large industries and other agencies interested in industrial development have been working on plans to provide more practical and convenient areas for factory locations, home building sites, shopping centers, and school facilities outside congested city centers.

This progressive planning is going on all over the country. One of the latest to be announced is that of the Union Pacific Railroad Company on a project of several hundred acres on the outskirts of Portland, Oregon. According to the company there is a growing need for this type of high-class, close-in development suitable for industries whose investments and payrolls have a tremendous effect on the economic health of the community.

Thus, does a large industry make possible the development of a hundred smaller industries-one can't exist without the other. This is the private enterprise way of building the nation.

A SHODDY CASE

Various groups - including the long-established socialized electric power groups, want the government to go into the production of electricity from the atom on a huge scale, to the total or virtual exclusion of private enterprise. And the idea has been developed that we are currently doing next to nothing in this nuclear field, and that private enterprise just isn't willing or able to take the risks and get the job done.

A late issue of the authoritative Barron's weekly says this: "Let us look at the record. According to the Atomic Energy Commission, the U.S. to date has built 32 nuclear reactors of all types and sizes, more than the rest of the world combined. In addition, 127 others are on the drawing board or under construction."

Many of these, to be sure, have been designed for military or for experimental purposes. However, starting next year, no fewer than 18 atomic power stations, sooner or later, will be placed in operation in this country. By 1962, AEC has disclosed,

U.S. atomic generating capacity will have climbed to 1.2 million kilowatts. The 18 plants, by the way, represent an investment of over $650 million, more than half of which will be provided by industry. The fact is that since 1954, when it became possible for the first time, private atomic risk-taking has begun to flourish."

Barron's goes into various other phases of the matter, including the tactics of those who are fighting private development. Of this it says: "The aim of the opposition is to hinder or prevent the possible breakthrough of private enterprise in this sphere (the sphere of the breeder reactor). By so doing, they hope to strengthen the shoddy case for socialized atomic power. This procedure may strike some as a clever political gambit. In fact, it is playing fast and loose with the nation's welfare and security. For, in bureaucratic hands, the peace-time atom, can never fulfill its vast promise."

That is the story - in clear and simple outline. Every man and woman in this country should understand it.

Dover, Del. State News - "there are a lot of people who have no faith in the U.N. They are honestly fearful - and advocate the United States drop out. Ostrich-like they think that by not facing the facts of this changing world that this nation could exist alone."

U. S. ARMY

CERTAIN ARMY ENLISTEES TO GET IMMEDIATE LEAVE IN DECEMBER

"When do I get my first leave" has long been one of the first questions asked by Army recruits as soon as they have been sworn in. The answer has usually been "After you complete your basic training."

Those men who enlist between December 15th and January 1st will be given a different answer to that question. It will be: "Right now, if you want it."

Master Sergeant James G. Everett of the Army Recruiting Station at VA Building, 89 Appleton Street, Lowell announced this morning that he has been given authority to offer men enlisting during the last two weeks in December up to 15 days leave immediately after they are sworn in at Boston Army Base. This action has been taken by the Army so that men may enlist and still be assured of being home for the holidays. All such leaves must terminate on or before January 7th.

In addition to being home for the holidays this year, men taking advantage of this offer on the part of the Army will reap another benefit. Their enlistments will terminate just before the holidays, which will enable them to be home for Christmas that year, also.

NEWS ABOUT DEPENDENT CHILDREN

For a long time, benefit payments to a child ended when the child reached the age of 18 but new changes in the law have made provisions for those who are over that age. It was announced today by Miss Ethel Eliopoulos, district manager of the Lowell Social Security office.

The changes, Miss Ethel Eliopoulos said, provide for payment of benefits under certain conditions even after he or she may be over the age of 18.

The provision is that the child must have been "totally disabled" before the age of 18. The child may still qualify after that age for benefits but there still are qualifications which have to be met.

To be eligible for benefits after age of 18, the disabled child must be unmarried and be dependent in a parent, a step-parent or adoptive parent who is eligible for old-age insurance benefits or who was insured for the purpose of survivors' benefits at the time of his or her death.

The mother of the child is also eligible for monthly benefit payments as long as she continues to have the disabled child in her care.

"In the law, the word 'child' is used because the child's benefit payments under the provision in the amended law are based on a disability which became total before the child's 18 birthday," Miss Eliopoulos stated.

"However," Miss Eliopoulos added, "the benefits continue into the adult years as long as the beneficiary remains totally disabled. Moreover, it is not necessary that the recipient of child's benefits have any work record at all under Social Security in order to get these monthly payments."

"In writing the provision for disabled child's benefits into the amended law," Miss Eliopoulos said, "Congress gave recognition to the well-known fact that disabled children are as dependent upon their parents after attaining the age of 18 as before."

"Therefore, it was felt that it was important to fill this gap in the federal insurance program by providing benefits for children who would not be able to support themselves."

"We all realize the serious and distressing situation faced by people who have the care of a child—the sort of child who never really grows up because of mental deficiency or one who requires constant care through life because of a physical impairment."

"The chief concern of such parents is the more acute because they constantly are haunted by the spectre of uncertainty. Their problem is what will happen to the child when the usual family income is cut off by the death or retirement of the family breadwinner."

Benton, Texas, Record-Chronicle: "In a long list of elections, where the government-in-business principle was the issue, sentiment against it, as expressed in the vote, has been overwhelming. Socialism is usually imposed on us from above—not by the vote of the people."

$250,000 BLAZE GUTS FURNITURE WAREHOUSE

WILMINGTON—A spectacular fire yesterday afternoon completely destroyed a one and one-half story building which was occupied by Tunney's furniture warehouse . . . The entire building and contents were valued at $250,000.

The building, located at 205 Main Street was reduced to rubble within 40 minutes, and at the peak of the blaze flames were so intense that woodland across the road was set ablaze.

Shortly after Wilmington firemen arrived at the scene, additional apparatus was summoned from Reading, Burlington, Woburn, Tewksbury, Andover and Lowell.

Firemen worked for more than four hours to squelch the flames, which at their height were visible over the tree tops. A pillar of smoke was seen by people as far as 10 miles from the blaze.

JOAN E. CUSHING BRIDE OF ROBERT DOUCETTE

The altar of St. Thomas' Church, decorated with white daisies provided the background as the Rev. Joseph Leahy united Miss Joan E. Cushing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Cushing of 21 Brand Ave., Wilmington, and Robert J. Doucette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Doucette of E. Street, Reading. Mrs. Estelle Shelly was organist at the wedding, which took place on Saturday, Nov. 17, at 9:00 a.m.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an imported Chantilly lace over satin, the fitted bodice designed with a Peter Pan collar, and long pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt was fashioned of lace and nylon tulle. A finger-tip veil of imported French illusion was attached to her pillbox of pleated nylon trimmed with lace appliques, sprinkled with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a white bouquet.

The maid of honor, Miss Doris A. Cushing, sister of the bride, wore an orchid ballerina length gown of nylon tulle and lace fashioned with a lace bodice and bouffant lace and nylon tulle skirt. A lace jacket covered the strapless bodice. Miss Janice Doucette, sister of the groom, Reading; Mrs. Ruby Cushing, sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Catherine Turner, friend of the bride; and Miss Elaine Doucette, sister of the groom; all served as bridesmaids and wore gowns of shrimp and fall mint of the same design as the maid of honor.

Mr. Raymond Doucette, friend of the groom served as best man. George Peters, friend of the groom, Wakefield; Nelson Doucette, cousin of the groom, Reading; Charles Heinstrom, brother-in-law of the groom; Richard Cushing, brother of the bride, Wilmington; all served as ushers.

The mother of the bride wore blue lace with silver accessories, and the mother of the groom in dusty rose with white accessories. They both wore corsages.

The bride was educated in Wilmington Schools and is now employed by the Electronic Plastics Corp., Wilmington. The bridegroom was educated in Reading Schools, was a first class Sgt. in Korea and Hawaii. He is employed as a Mason.

The happy newlyweds went to Canada, Quebec, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia on their wedding trip. As of Dec. 1, they have been living in their new ranch house at 12 E. Street, Reading.

The place of reception was in Saugus, at the V.F.W. Hall. There was music by The Key Notes, Miss Margaret McCabe, friend of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

WHALE OF A DIFFERENCE

New England is still using whale oil for illumination, but only in museum demonstrations. The oil is burned in old Yankee sperm oil lamps during lectures on the lighting devices of 150 years ago. Whale oil started heading for the museum in 1859, when the discovery of petroleum brought the kerosene lamp.

Although today, kerosene has switched from lamp fuel to jet plane fuel, petroleum is still in the lighting picture through the enormous amount of electricity it helps generate.

Since its very first commercial beginnings, petroleum has helped to light, as well as lighten our work

A REMARKABLE RECORD

At recent solid fuels conference in Washington, D. C., an executive of a soft coal company had something interesting and encouraging to say about his industry.

He pointed out that coal's most vulnerable markets have been largely liquidated, that its remaining markets are growth industries, and that the industry can look forward "to gradual expansion in the years ahead."

He also said, "In the circumstances, considering competition and loss of sales, declining prices, increasing freight rates and mining costs, it was remarkable for the bituminous industry to survive as a private enterprise business, much less to appear with the vigor it has today. "He added that to supply coal's changing markets, "production has been revamped and it will have further developments with the appearance of new mechanization and techniques."

Probably comparatively few people fully understand how greatly coal mining has changed in a short span of time, with its monstrous machines which enable each man to do far more productive work-and, incidentally, to earn his very high wages and fringe benefits which now total some $27.25 per day. Coal is one of our vital industries, which has been beset with grave problems and has shown initiative and courage in seeking solutions.

"ON THE JOB" TEACHER TRAINING

The value of practical experience, as an important part of training in virtually every field of endeavor, is unquestioned. Michigan State University is proving that such experience is no less important in the critical job of training teachers.

This year, 300 M.S.U. students are teaching full-time in 13 Michigan communities before receiving college degrees as "full-fledged" teachers. Thus, in the community itself, they are able to see the problems a community must face and learn the viewpoints of parents and others without the orientation period that often is trying for all concerned.

Such a program could be adopted by many other schools and communities to the mutual benefit of everyone.

TREASON TO FREEDOM

Maxwell Anderson, in his book, "The Guaranteed Life," wrote: "The greatest enemies of democracy, the most violent reactionaries, are those who have lost faith in the capacity of a free people to manage their own affairs and wish to set up the government as a political and social guardian, running their business and making their decisions for them. This is statism or Stalinism, no matter who advocates it, and it's plain treason to freedom."

It is an unhappy irony that the fine old word "liberal" has been appropriated by people who want the government to run everything, decide everything, and boss everyone. This is as far from classical and traditional liberalism as a man can get. The advocates of the super-state are, as Mr. Anderson pointed out, the real reactionaries.

THE BARK AND THE BITE

A short time ago headlines announced that the official Consumer Price Index had risen to a new high. But, as is often the case, the bark was worse than the bite. For the increase was a tiny one—only three-tenths of one per cent.

And certain relevant facts are rarely headlined. One is that, at about the same time, workers' real income had increased by more than one per cent, due to wage boosts. Another is that the amount of goods and services a worker could buy with his earnings has been at record levels.

Much of the credit for that should go to an institution which rarely is given its retailing. Retailers have had to meet higher wages and higher costs all along the line. But, by modern methods, they have cut the costs of food distribution by one-quarter since 1933. Much greater efficiency and economy is found in every phase of the business, from transportation to the store proper. And, in the case of food chains and supermarkets the retail net profit is commonly only one solitary cent on each dollar of sales.

Comparable progress has been made in all the other retail fields. Retailing couldn't prevent inflation—but it has done a tremendous job in taking some of the sting out of it.

Roseburg, Ore., News-Review: "It takes difference of opinion, difference of policy and political theory to make good government. The best government is obtainable when the division between major schools of thought is nearly equal."

A True Lincoln Story
Someone asked Lincoln once whether he did not find the ceremonies of the Presi-

"Yes, sometimes", said
Lincoln.

"In fact I feel sometimes said:

"If it wasn't for the honor of the thing I'd rather walk."

der Edgar M. Mills, Christian Science Monitor, chairman. This was particularly interesting in as much as the duties of the reporter, editor and community officials, in respect to each other were very clearly defined. The entire panel consisted of editors and reporters.

Gov. Herter addressed the dinner gathering, after which Governor Elect Furcolo spoke and received the well wishes of the assembly.

That these conferences have proved their worth in the past is evident from the following excerpts of his speech, of which Governor Elect Furcolo was in sincere accord and stated further that he would continue with these conferences.

(Excerpts from the remarks of Governor Christian A. Herter at the Seventh Annual Governor's Conference on State, County and Municipal Relations at the Hotel Statler, Boston.)

"Although it is difficult to tabulate the accomplishments of a Conference of this nature because many of its permanent achievements are intangible, educational and long range, I have been encouraged just by reviewing the reports of the past six conferences and also in noting what has taken place here today.

"Certainly, a closer relationship and a better understanding of the common problems existing between the Commonwealth and our municipalities, and countries have been effected on a healthy, non-partisan basis. The Conference has served as an important center of ideas, discussions, information and criticism for mayors, city managers, selectmen, county commissioners, and other state and local officials, as well as the public. Educational material, stemming from the panel discussions at the Conference, has been printed and distributed. Important reports and resolutions have been submitted by study committees set up by the Conference.

"What the Conference has recommended in the past has received prompt and effective action. For instance, the early recommendations to bring about uniform appraisals and equalized valuations throughout the Commonwealth came from this Conference. Administrative changes to reduce the cost of school building construction were also important policy recommendations of our group. The Conference was a pioneer in recommending changes in excise tax administration, which brought about machine billing and speedier intra-governmental transactions.

"Early and strong support of legislation to correct abuses in our pension system was also given by the Conference.

"Then, too, meetings have been held frequently in both the western and eastern parts of the state, thus pulling together our governmental units.

"All of us have been acutely conscious of the importance of Home Rule, and while the concrete inroads that the Conference has been able to make in this vitally important direction are difficult to assess, certainly public attention has frequently been called to the significance of effective local government.

"One of the solid accomplishments of the Conference has been the newly created Bureau of Governmental Research at the University of Massachusetts, about which you heard a great deal in the morning session. I am confident that this Bureau at our state university will continue to grow and serve the needs of all public officials who wisely decide to call upon it.

"May I thank the officials from all parts of the Commonwealth who are gathered here tonight, as well as the many others who have been fortunate enough to participate in the past six gatherings, for their wonderful cooperation and for their willingness to air in a spirit of public service and non-partisanship those penetrating comments, criticisms, and recommendations which have meant so much to the progress of all governmental units in Massachusetts. I think I can truthfully say that these Conferences have been an education for all of us."

INNOVATION IN OPEN HOUSE TRIED AT HIGH SCHOOL

National Education week was observed in Wilmington with open house in all schools and was sponsored by the teachers club. The Open House in the grade schools was conducted in the usual manner with a good turnout.

There was a new procedure followed in the Junior and Senior High School. Starting with an assembly in the auditorium, the parents visited class rooms in order of their child's Wednesday schedule. Fifteen minutes was spent in each classroom. The teachers explained the subjects and answered parents questions.

The PTA and the faculty would be interested in knowing if the program met with approval.

The Crusader Visits Raffi & Swanson

by Betty Downs

If, a few years back, anyone had said that Wilmington would one day be a growing town, with industry and businesses, he would have been listened to with skepticism. However, the slow, seemingly unprogressive community of yesterday has definitely increased its pace and today looms as the most active town on a general business and industrial plane.

No offense is meant to any of the citizens, who have lived their lives here. This writer heartily disagrees with the newcomer when he tries to convince us that Wilmington was not even "on the map" until he arrived on the scene. Myself and mine have lived here for over twenty years and have enjoyed every day of it. For a fact, Wilmington has been here for a long, long time, and is now beginning to make its mark.

One of the many reasons why Wilmington now shines more brightly on the above mentioned map, today, is the introduction of better business industry. Standing high among the newcomers is the plant of Raffi and Swanson on Eames street.

Raffi and Swanson originally went into production at 22 Custom House Street, in Boston, and as time passed and business expanded, more plants and space were called for and in 1938 the concern moved to Chelsea.

Monsanto Chemicals of Everett was very active in the same field, but in 1951 sold its surface coating department to Raffi and Swanson. Plans were now made for consolidating the surface coating department purchased from Monsanto with the original Raffi and Swanson into one large, completely new unit. Permission was sought for and received at a town meeting to relocate at Eames Street in Wilmington. Construction was started in March of 1952 and the first shipment of lacquer product left Wilmington by truck on July 14, just four months later.

This writer visited Raffi and Swanson on Thursday, Nov. 29, feeling that many of our citizens would be interested in the activities of the plant.

The cordiality of the employees we met, their willingness to conduct us through the plant, and the answering of the innumerable questions, is most assuredly worthy of comment. The cheerfulness of the administration building seems to be reflected into the plant which is run by efficient workers who are highly trained in their work and who apparently enjoy what they are doing.

We are not going too far into the technical aspects of our tour as it may be a bit confusing, but would like to mention a few of the lacquer materials which are produced. Most of the material produced on Eames St., reaches the consumer indirectly, through manufacturers.

The special lacquer used on the keys of your piano, the basic ingredients of your finger nail polish, the coating of your metallic ironing board cover, or the finish on a pin in a bowling alley are just a few of the many products in this highly diversified field.

Raffi and Swanson has perfected one type of paint, which has been sold directly to the consumer and which may, in the future, come directly into market in larger amounts. The tweed paint, of which we speak, is on display in the reception room. This paint can only be applied by spraying and bear a striking resemblance to tweed cloth for which it is named. Some of the rooms of our town's most well-known building is already sporting a tweed coat and another is in the process. Our town hall is the first mentioned and Weinbergs Department Store is the other.

While being conducted through the plant, among the various vats and mixers we were most favorably impressed by the precautions taken by this concern against fire. Every known protective device against fire is in use, the cement flooring and walls themselves containing fire guarding ingredients.

Twenty large tanks of solvents, situated at the rear of the plant, seem to be sitting in a large hole. In reply to questions, it was learned that these surrounding earthworks are fire-walls and insure each tank individually. Should a tank spring a leak, the solvents would be retained within the earth mounds and would seek only the level of the tanks themselves, thus, preventing the spreading to the surrounding areas. Each of these tanks are also equipped with the most modern devices to avoid possible combustion and are checked with frequent regularity.

Barrels of cotton, shipped here from New Jersey and used in the various processes, are stored in a separate building, far removed from the plant operations. All barrels and containers are made of metal as an added precaution.

Materials, prior to leaving the plant, are tested for their flash point, (the degree of heat at which the material will fire) and any deviation from formulated standards will of course cause a cancellation and a reprocessing of same to the required standard.

It has long been noticed that this plant is one of the most attractive manufacturing in Wilmington and to the passer-by appears well taken care for. It may interest the reader to know that the same well taken care of look is predominant throughout the entire plant, the buildings and grounds. Raffi and Swanson has a large maintenance crew and the appearance upkeep of the plant consumes almost as many man-hours as the actual production.

So - readers - if you bruise that ten-pin, scratch that piano key or scorch your ironing board cover, the chances are excellent that they will come back for more as they may be finished with a product made by men who know what they are doing, probably the men of Raffi and Swanson.

ST. THOMAS' NEWS

With the Advent season here we are again printing the instructions for making the Advent Wreath Center-piece.

1. Use a ring mold or the largest round cake pan you can find.

2. Place four tall candles (ordinary ones will suffice) equal distances apart. Stick the bases in little pools of candle drippings.

3. Midway between every two candles attach a purple ribbon long enough to drape on the table. Fasten with scotch tape.

4. Fill the mold 3-4 full of sand and add water to just below the surface of the sand.

5. Stick sprigs of Greenery into the sand. Put in as many as you can and try to arrange them so that some hang down over the outside of the mold.

6. Each evening during during Advent when the family gathers around the wreath for dinner, recite the prayers designated and light the candles as directed. The father, or head of the household, leads the blessing with the following prayer:

Father: Our help is in the name of the Lord.

All: Who made heaven and earth.

Father: Let us pray. O God, by whose word all things are sanctified, pour forth blessings upon this wreath, and grant that we who use it may prepare our hearts for the coming of Christ and may receive from Thee abundant graces, through Christ Our Lord.

All: Amen. (The father sprinkles the wreath with holy water.) Each evening of the first week, the youngest child lights one candle, and this prayer is said:

Father: O, Lord, stir up Thy might, we beg Thee, that by Thy protection we may deserve to be rescued from the threatening dangers of our sins and saved by Thy deliverance, through Christ Our Lord.

Triduum: Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, at 7:45 p.m. in preparation for the Feast of Our Immaculate Mother Special Intentions: Wednesday, Prayers for the Hungarian people, Thursday, for vocations, Friday, Our Christmas gift to the Mother of the Christ Child.

Thursday, Confessions for First Friday after Triduum Services.

First Friday: First Friday Masses will be at 6, 7, and 7:30 a.m.

Saturday: The Feast of the Immaculate Conception, Holy day Obligation. There will be no Christian Doctrine Classes. Masses will be at 7, 8, 9, and 10 a.m. at 7:45 p.m. with Confessions Friday afternoon and evening. Next Sunday is Communion day for the men of the parish, especially the Holy Name Society. V.F.W. DUGOUT DOINGS

Last Thursday night was one of our better attended meetings and the feeling of interest is evident by the willingness of the post members to cooperate on different committees.

Angelo Ingrahara, your Junior Vice Commander is in charge of the Christmas party for the children this year and the program promises to be very entertaining for the kiddies.

The month of April, next year, promises to be the date of a very important event. Will keep you posted in regards.

Most of the gang were down to St. Anthony's club, last Saturday night, for a Roast Beef dinner. The meal was excellent and the portions were indeed very generous. Matter of fact, you ate all you wanted. Higgie herself, couldn't eat any more.

After the dance, all proceeded to Moe and Lorraine's house, where the celebration went on. What any one was celebrating, I don't know, however, three hands failed to show up for "operation refrigerator" Sunday morning.

If Jack Madigan should be reading this column, please take note. A few alterations are to be made down to the dugout and we can use your level, Jack, and let's get the skilled help. Bring along your project over with.

The new refrigerator is a welcome addition to our galley, and, along with the new stove, the kitchen looks pretty good.

Charley Nickerson has had a new addition to his family (his third son) but we haven't seen him around lately to congratulate him.

Bill Simmons and Bill Bovitz are in charge of our next social, to be held on Saturday, Dec. 15. As a very good time is usually had by all attending, we recommend you readers dropping in and enjoying yourselves on a social level.

Don Andersen (County Real Estate) and Hank Hyatt (Tom's Tydol Station) were sworn in at the last meeting and were well received by the post. Congratulations Don and Hank, happy to have you aboard.

Our new membership is increasing very satisfactorily and I strongly urge all members to participate in our membership drive and bring along any eligible veterans. Our strength lies in our membership and unity. All indications point to a record enrollment year and makes me very proud.

1957 dues are payable. All members, current and delinquent, are expected to be up to date by Jan. 1, 1957. How about it, you readers, is your membership paid for 1957?

Fourteen new members and five delinquents are already enrolled for 1957 and if our regular members, active or non-active, will bring their cards up to date, as of Jan. 1, the chances of 100% increase of membership over last April '56 are excellent.

Our Building Fund is steadily growing and this writer would appreciate any suggestions or contributions to increase same.

Was glad to see Bill LaScolles down to the last meeting. Bill, incidentally is leaving the States for Turkey, on the 18th of December. He has already completed a tour of duty with the Army and Navy and is currently enlisted in the Air Force. Bon Voyage and good luck, Bill, keep us posted, will you?

Just heard that Walt Smith had a new addition. I don't know if it's a boy or girl, but good luck to you, Walt, and where are the cigars?

Just Wondering: If you have seen Jeanne's new second-hand car yet?

If Alan Fenton will ever return my uniform shirt?

What Bill Bovitz and Bill Simmons will have to eat at our next Social?

Why we never see Hank Schinners lately?

How Don Andersen walked out of the last meeting without being on some committee?

What ever happened to Stan Witham and Freddie Lloyd that they couldn't make the working party Sunday morning?

If some plans can't be formulated for a New Year's Party?

If some of you readers are wondering what event will take place next April? Keep posted to this column and I'll give you the information as soon as it's unclassified.

A LITTLE GIRL HAS A BIG HEART

There is nothing that will soften the heart as will the plight of a child whose life hangs by a thread, and when the crisis in that young life comes at the Christmas season, it is doubly heart rending.

Little Louise Anderson of Saco, Maine is four years old. Sunday was Christmas for her, for there is a chance that Dec. 25 will be too late Louise, in any event, will not be home for Christmas. On Monday she was flown to the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota for further study for an operation to attempt to save her life. Born without the proper valves in her heart, it is impossible for the tiny, defective heart to pump blood throughout her body. The doctors at the Mayo clinic have been studying her case and are planning to perform an operation that has only been tried a scant hundred times. At first, they gave her only one chance out of a thousand, but now give her a better chance.

Louise has a cousin in Wilmington, Roberta Corella of Clark St. Although only nine Roberta realized the seriousness of the situation. The Anderson family is in moderate circumstances, there are two other small children. The people of the town of Saco have helped in every way possible, running benefits and donating all they could. Then the Crippled Children's Fund heard of Louise and offered to help. But when the arrangements had been made, and the plane tickets to Minnesota purchased, the fund was well depleted.

So Roberta asked permission from Chief Lynch, and on receiving his blessing, started out door to door to collect to help her cousin. On Sunday she collected $13.20, and anyone who has ever done any canvassing will know how much work that meant, how many explanations, how many blank doors, how many strange faces. A big job for a little girl, a little girl with a big heart.

Wilmington is a little town, but a more prosperous town than Saco right now. Perhaps now, while the Christmas season fills us with the joy of giving, we could extend a helping hand to someone a little less fortunate than we are. Roberta asked Santa for a new heart for her cousin for Christmas. We'd like to see Roberta's parents not have to worry about money as well as their little girl. Roberta's number is OL 8-3189 or any of us on the Crusader will contact her for you.

Welcome Wagon Welcomes Newcomers

We are very happy to publish another list of newcomers welcomed by Wilmington's Welcome Wagon Hostess, Marion J. Woller.

Make Reservation For Legion Party Early

A dinner featuring a half chicken will be a major attraction, and Santa will be there, asking all to bring a 50 cent wrapped gift for his pack. Deadline for the $1.25 tickets is Dec. 10, so hurry, hurry. Call Joe Bradley, OL 83682 or Millie Dolan, OL 8-3504 for your ticket.

High School Students To Entertain At PTA Meeting

Next Tuesday, Dec. 11, at 8 p.m. in the Herbert Barrows Auditorium, the high school students will present their program under the auspices of the PTA. Russell Gould, president of the dramatic club, will begin the program with the entertaining "Meaning of Christmas." The dramatic club will then present a one act play entitled "Twas the Night Before Christmas." Following the play, three Christmas carols will be sung by the high school glee club.

Joan Hunnefeld will give a biblical reading as a group of students enact a tableau of the nativity scene. The program will close with a carol sung by Danny Gouveau.

The PTA hopes that everyone will make an effort to attend as this promises to be an excellent program.

CDA Plans Huge Christmas Whist

Court St. Thomas of Villanova will hold its annual Christmas gift whist on Monday, Dec. 10, at Villanova Hall. There will be many attractive prizes and the usual large attendance is expected, as the proceeds of this party are used to provide baskets for the needy at Christmas.

WBZ-TV NEWS SUPERVISOR, F. "DINNY" WHITMARSH SPEAKS AT NEWS CONVENTION IN MILWAUKEE

F. "Dinny" Whitmarsh, WBZ-TV news Supervisor, recently featured as a speaker at the National Association of Radio and Television News Directors Convention held in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Nov. 15 through 17.

Whitmarsh spoke on the television workshop panel concerning "Taking Moving Pictures for Television Newsreels." To illustrate his speech, he showed a twelve minute newsreel. This consisted of carefully compiled film clips selected to give characteristic examples of WBZ-TV news coverage.

Chosen for the newsreel were examples from the station's recent special series, "New Schools in New England" and last summer's popular news feature "WBZ-TV Features the Beaches." Clips from the Brink's Trial coverage were included to show how artist sketches were employed to supplement film when cameras were prohibited in the courtroom.

The spectacular fire at Bath, New Hampshire (also included in the reel) gave an example to the convention panel of the way in which the WBZ-TV stringer system enables the station to get exclusive stories. The work of a number of such stringers was demonstrated in the film of the Boston and Maine train wreck at Swampscott where seven WBZ-TV cameramen were assigned to cover this important story. Film of the March blizzard showed how the news department integrated into one newscast film taken by newsmen all over the state.

At the end of his speech "Dinny" Whitmarsh had hundreds of requests for his recent written 25 page booklet entitled "Taking Moving Pictures for Television Newsreels." This pamphlet was written specifically for the use of WBZ-TV cameramen, but it has met with such tremendous interest, that three of the "Big 10" universities have requested copies for use in their journalism class.

Pearl Harbor Day

Friday, Dec. 7, is the 15th anniversary of Pearl Harbor Day. Remembering the lack of preparedness on that fateful day, our chapter commander, James Shine, would like to pass on to you these thoughts.

Jim said our youth would be able to lead to her citizens in protecting and defending themselves against bomb attacks on our cities and their aftermath.

"Disabled veterans - the men who bear the wounds of Pearl Harbor and the war that followed - realize more than anyone the necessity for military training and preparedness," he said. "That is why the nation must be prepared both militarily and psychologically to defend ourselves against any future act of aggression by enemy powers."

"We must be trained not only in the event of emergency, but the man who is trained in the art of self defense and survival is much better equipped to avoid disablement and death."

Psychological preparation, Shine said, means that the whole nation should participate in civilian defense and be alert to any threat of surprise aggression.

"We must not let that happen and we can avoid it by examining carefully any such attempts and denouncing them. We must shake off the lethargy which seems to prevail in many of our communities in the matter of civilian defense.
